

OAKLAND CELEBRATES THE FOURTH IN SPLENDID STYLE.

If Thomas Jefferson had ridden into Oakland this morning, doubtless he would have been surprised to see how splendidly the Fourth of July was being celebrated on the shores of the Pacific. When he wrote the Declaration of Independence, the Mississippi river was the western boundary of the colonies that rebelled from King George's sway. There was not a city as large as Oakland on the continent, and no such place as Oakland. The site of this town was in a state of nature and a part of the royal domain of Spain. It was not even the Rancho Peralta.

their devotion to the immortal principles enunciated in the great charter of our liberties signed at Philadelphia, July 4, 1776, while 50,000 spectators lined the streets and flags and bunting waved from the buildings in a fine city 2,000 miles west of the farthestmost limits of the Republic he helped to form.

Early in the day crowds began to gather in the streets. Every car and train from the suburbs and the outside towns came laden with people in holiday attire. There was the sound of martial music in many different quarters, men in bright uniforms and gay sashes hurried to and fro, while the assembly called from bugles rang out on the morning air.

making an especially fine showing. There were six companies of the United States Band in line. The Sons of America, Woodmen, Macabees and other societies turned out strong, giving color and variety to the parade. The floats were numerous and handsome.

MANY FEATURES IN BIG PARADE.

Thousands of Men in Line Floats Were Well Arrayed—Details of the Procession.

The line of march was cleared of obstructions and over-enthusiastic people by a trio of police outriders, comprising Sergeant Green and officers Hunley and Smith.

In advance of the procession marched the moving tableau, representing the picture known as the "Spirit of Seventy-six," comprising a gray-haired old farmer, a drummer, an equally old associate, and a lad of tender years, the two latter playing fife and rendering patriotic airs.

Chief Hodgkins was attended by Officers Brown, Jacobus, Fergie and Emerson.

After these marched a platoon of stalwart policemen in spotless uniforms, glittering stars, bearing themselves with soldierly dignity and marching with the precision of trained veterans.

The platoon comprised Officers Agnew, Collett, Schroeder, Lynch, Sill, Murray, Kyte, Turner, Murrell, Brennan, Cockerton, Williams, Gilbert and Andrews.

Then came the Grand Marshal, George W. Arper, riding a magnificent, foamed mount of jet black, with glistening sides, and bearing the saddle and housings of a cavalry officer.

He was attended by his chief-of-staff, Webb N. Coward, and by J. L. Dean and J. J. McKelroy, all of whom were mounted.

FIRST DIVISION.

At the head of the first division rode Major E. H. Pearce, who had as mounted aides D. J. Hallahan and J. E. Jordan.

Then came the military feature of the procession, regulars, militia and veterans, and a most imposing feature it made. The right of the line was held by L Company of the Seventh Infantry, in command of Captain W. K. Wright, the lieutenants first and second being Ralph McCoy and James M. Loud, respectively.

The next company was G. of the same regiment, commanded by Captain A. T. Owenship, the second lieutenant being E. L. Andrews.

The left of the regular troops was brought up by P company, which was under command of Captain V. A. Caldwell, the lieutenants being P. M. Cochran and Van H. Denny.

Then came a battery of artillery from the Presidio at San Francisco, in command of Major E. E. Harbin. It comprised six guns and a corresponding number of caissons, each gun and caisson being drawn by six horses.

The guns and wagons lumbered along and attracted a great deal of attention because artillery turn outs are seldom seen in public displays of the kind.

Following in the wake of the battery came a company of marines from the U. S. S. Pensacola at San Francisco. They wore field uniforms with blue shirts and felt hats and marched as well as if it was their pleasure to enjoy shore leave for tactics purposes.

The marines were followed by three companies of naval apprentices from the naval school at Goat Island. The prospective defenders of the country on the water and marines were in command of Lieutenant Colonel Almy.

The battalion appeared to greater advantage than did that which appeared here a year ago. There were not so many young fellows in the ranks, and many of those in evidence had attained to stalwart proportions.

SECOND DIVISION.

The marshal of the Second Division was Herman N. Gard. His aides were Thomas N. Stevenson and H. P. Smith.

The martial music was furnished by the Fifth Infantry Band.

TRAIN HELD UP AND MESSENGER IS SHOT.

Daring Robbers Open the Safe and Secure a Sum of Money.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 4.—The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Road through express train No. 5, bound for Omaha and Denver which left Chicago at 10 o'clock last night was held up by robbers at Dupont, Ill., an hour later.

Express Messenger Kane was shot through the groin by one of the robbers and is in a critical condition. The local safe was forced open but the amount of the booty secured is not known.

Charles Nessler, who climbed over the tender of the engine and told the engineer and firemen to stop the train, has been arrested. Nessler, however, is believed to be the unwilling accomplice of the robbers as he obeyed their commands at the point of a revolver.

The detectives are hot on the trail of the robbers. A special train is waiting at Coal City for a pair of blood-hounds, which are to be rushed to the scene of the hold-up.

According to Nessler's story, only two robbers were concerned, but the detectives think there were more. Nessler is about 22 years of age, of frank appearance and intelligent, and claims to be of respectable parents. He says he went to Niles Center recently to visit a cousin. Last night he started on a bicycle trip to Chicago, leaving his way taking the train at Chicago. At Kanglewood, he climbed on the humpers back of the tender and had scarcely secured this position when two men also climbed up. They said nothing in particular until Midlothian station was reached. Then one of the men climbed over the end of the tender on the coal and told Nessler to follow. Both men had adjusted black masks to their faces. At the point of a revolver Nessler was told to go forward to the cab and order the engineer to stop the train half a mile beyond. Thoroughly frightened he did so. The engineer and fireman regarded the request as a joke and laughed. "Look up there," said Nessler. The trainmen did so and saw two revolvers pointing toward them. "This is no joke," said one robber. "Stop the train or I'll kill you."

The engineer shut off steam and brought the train to a standstill near the Dupont Ranch. The engine crew were taken back and Nessler was commanded to remain on the engine. The command was made to the express messenger and baggage-man to open the door of their car and threats were made to blow it open with dynamite. The door was opened and the robbers rushed in. A struggle ensued and Messenger Kane was shot through the groin.

The robbers attempted to open the tender safe but were unsuccessful. The local safe, however, was forced open. It is not known what amount of money was taken. It is reported that a bag of jewelry and some money was found in the safe, but the railway officials say practically nothing of value was secured. The robbers disappeared. Kane was taken to Linley Park for treatment and later removed to the Englewood hospital. The police here have a satchel and a quantity of dynamite found in a car near the scene of the robbery. None of the passengers were molested.

LITERARY EXERCISES AT HIGH SCHOOL.

Prof. Henry Morse Stephens Delivers a Scholarly Oration in the Presence of a Large Audience.

At the close of the parade a large crowd assembled in front of the High School to witness the literary exercises. The stage was occupied by the members of the Fourth of July Committee and the officers of the day. Music was furnished by the Fifth Regiment Band.

The exercises opened with an invocation by the Rev. Madison Slaughter, pastor of the Eighth Avenue Methodist church. P. M. Fisher, president of the day followed with his introductory address in which he paid a high compliment to the Merchants' Exchange, under whose auspices the celebration was held, and the Elks also for the manner in which they had developed public spirit. He said the amnesty proclamation issued to the Philippines showed that the American people had not forgotten the liberty for which their forefathers fought.

There were eight companies in line, each member of which was attired in a uniform fashioned after that of the officers of the regular army. Captain William J. Kidd was in charge of the First Battalion. The Second Battalion was under the command of Major Max Wuchienbach. Then came Liberty Company, in command of Captain L. Y. Cavassio; Dirigo Company in command of Captain C. C. Wenk; Crockett Company, No. 1, in command of H. H. Paul in command; McKinley Company in charge of Captain M. Samuels; Golden Gate Company, with Captain C. A. Samuels and the thian Company, Captain E. Lohmeyer.

The marchers presented a cavalierly appearance and created a cavalcade impression all along the line.

The subordinate lodges of the Pythians were represented in a uniform of black coats, white trousers, white hats with red, blue and yellow crowns and red, white and blue canes. They marched four abreast and presented a fine appearance. There were 500 of them in line.

The Pythian display was closed by a fine float on all sides of which were highly illuminated symbols of the order painted in a most artistic manner. On either side was the legend, "Pythias as Friend True to His Word." Behind was a living tableau representing Calanthe endeavoring to induce Pythias to forgo his promise to return to Damon at a stated time.

MAN HUNT IN THE NORTH IS NOW ON IN EARNEST.

Militia is Ordered to Be Ready to Go After Tracy—Desperate Outlaw is Still Free.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 4.—At 11 o'clock last night, Governor McBride, who is a guest of the Hotel Butler, while in the city to attend the laying of the keel of the battleship Nebraska, caused an order to be issued calling on companies B and D of the National guard to assemble at the Armory and hold themselves in readiness to proceed at a moment's notice to assist in the hunt for Harry Tracy, the escaped convict.

The order was issued by Adjutant General Dral in his absence here. It directs Colonel George B. Lamping of the regiment to assume command of the detachment. The companies were fully mobilized at three o'clock this morning. It is understood that Governor McBride has no intention of calling the troops out unless Tracy should be taken alive, in which case the militia will be used to prevent lynching.

HUNT ON IN EARNEST. SEATTLE, Wash., July 4.—The man hunt is on in earnest. The latest word from Tracy is contained in a 'phone message received at 10 o'clock this morning from J. A. Rogers, the hotel proprietor, who drove Sheriff Cuddehe from Bothell to this city last night. Rogers telephoned to the sheriff's office that as he was driving home he passed Tracy on the road going east, about two miles beyond Green Lake, traveling in the direction of Pontiac. He was walking along the railroad track and when he saw Rogers he took to the brush. Rogers informed the sheriff's office that he is certain the man was Tracy. This is in line with the theory entertained by the sheriff's office that Tracy, in back-tracking, hoping to make his way to the north.

Tracy, moreover, it is believed, is convinced that with his record of killing yesterday, he will have the country pretty well all to himself on his way to the North.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 4.—Neil Rowley, the deputy game warden who was wounded last night by Tracy at the time that Police Officer Breeze was killed, died at the hospital at six o'clock this morning. Tracy slept last night in a barn near Ballard and about 5:30 this morning started north, toward Meadow Valley, where he landed when he came from Olympia. At 7 o'clock a report came from Brooklyn, a northwestern suburb, that Tracy was on the Northern Pacific track near there, heading back towards Bothell. This report was considered to be true by the Sheriff's office, but at 9 o'clock a telephone message from Fremont, a suburb between Brooklyn and Ballard, to the police department, stated that Tracy had been seen a half hour previous, at the same corner of Woodman Park at which the battle occurred last night. A posse at once started for the park and another is working over from Brooklyn towards Bothell.

Tracy immediately received the report of the news from Bothell, Sheriff Cuddehe made arrangements to secure a special train and leave at once for the place where Tracy is believed to be. Sheriff Jack McQuade of Issaquah, who has been informed and will leave in a few moments with thirty men by special train for Bothell, where they will take the wagon road and railroad track looking for Tracy. The constable at Bothell has been instructed to organize a posse and join in the hunt.

THE PRESIDENT WAS THEN escorted to his carriage. Those who occupied the carriage with the President were City Recorder J. O. Brown, United States Attorney General Knox, George B. Cortelyou, Secretary to the President. The other carriages in waiting were promptly filled by the reception committee. Brigadier General John A. HALF A MILLION PEOPLE GREET PRES. ROOSEVELT.

Magnificent Fourth of July Celebration in the City of Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, July 4.—Half a million persons greeted President Roosevelt in Pittsburg today. Many came from the industrial towns within one hundred miles of the city. It was the distinguished guest's first visit to the city as President, and his welcome was most enthusiastically.

From the Union Station to the speakers' stand in Schenley Park, nearly four miles away, it was one continuous cheer. The weather was all that could be desired, with the sun shining brightly and the temperature not too high.

RECEPTION COMMITTEE. At the Wilkesburg station of the Pennsylvania Railroad, a local reception committee, headed by George T. Oliver, boarded the train. As the train passed Shady-side station, Hampton, Battery B of the National Guard began to fire the President's salute of 21 guns. The last gun was fired as the President stepped from his car.

ESCORTE FOR PRESIDENT. The President was then escorted to his carriage. Those who occupied the carriage with the President were City Recorder J. O. FOURTH IS CELEBRATED IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Parade This Morning and Fireworks This Evening.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 4.—With a girde of fire about her loins and a brass band in her lungs, San Francisco today celebrated the nation's anniversary.

A military parade which included United States troops and State Militia, a battalion of police, city officials and public citizens passed through the main streets of the city during the morning and the column, which was greeted along the line of march with marked enthusiasm, was reviewed at Post street and Van Ness Avenue by General R. H. Warfield of the National Guard.

A regiment of infantry from the Presidio was commanded by Major Harold of the Seventh U. S. Infantry, while Col. Thomas P. O'Neill commanded the State troops, which included the First Battalion of Light Artillery, the First Regiment of Infantry and Troop A of the Cavalry.

Literary exercises were held in the afternoon at Metropolitan Temple, and meanwhile public concerts were in progress in the parks.

The city is in gala attire, the thoroughfares being resplendent with bunting and flags and the shipping at the water front being attired in streamers and pennants.

The celebration will close tonight with fireworks throughout the city.

FIRE IN LOS ANGELES. LOS ANGELES, July 4.—At an early hour this morning fire destroyed a three story brick building at 280 South Los Angeles street, owned by O. T. OAKLAND TRIBUNE
Tribune Publishing Company William E. Dargie, President
A NEW NATIONAL PARK. GENERAL WOOD.

The bill for the purchase of a National forest reserve in the Southern Appalachian mountains, which was passed in the closing hours of Congress, gives the Government a great natural park in each of the chief mountain chains of the country. The new reserve will be to the Appalachians what the Yosemite Park is to the Sierra Nevada and the Yellowstone Park is to the Rocky Mountains. The Government has other forest reservations, but these three are the main features of the National park system. The bill provides for the purchase of 4,000,000 acres of land at a cost of $10,000,000. It will secure a reserve about 150 miles in longest measure, and of various breadth, from 4,000 to 6,000 feet above the sea, running through the States of Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina, Alabama and Tennessee. In this mountain region are the springs of the James, the Roanoke, the Catawba, the Savannah, the Kanawha, the Tennessee, the French Broad and many other important streams of the South. In this region is located the greatest body of hardwood remaining on the Continent, and some of the finest mountain scenery to be found east of the Missouri River. The streams rising in this region are being rapidly utilized for turning mills and factories and generating electrical power to operate street lighting and street railway plants, and the conservation of the forests in a natural state will be of incalculable value in preserving the water courses from becoming mere torrents in winter and insignificant streamlets in summer. The money for this park will be well spent, and its appropriation is evidence of the growth of an enlightened public sentiment regarding the necessity for forest preservation.

FIGHTING GOULD IN CONGRESS.

The bitterness of the fight between the Pennsylvania Central and the Gould interests is shown by the introduction of a bill in Congress by Senator Penrose aimed at the Western Union Telegraph Company. Senator Penrose is the spokesman in the Senate of the Pennsylvania Central, which is all-powerful in the politics of the Keystone State. Senator Penrose might be in a better business, however, than using his official position to prevent the completion of another trunk line from the Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic seaboard. The combination between the Morgan, Vanderbilt and Pennsylvania interests blocks every avenue to the East and South from Chicago, save the outlet to New Orleans via the Illinois Central. Embraced in this combination are the New York Central lines, the New York & Erie, the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, the Reading, the Lehigh Valley, the Pennsylvania Central, the Baltimore & Ohio, the Chesapeake & Ohio, the Norfolk & Western, the Southern, the Louisville & Nashville, the Grand Trunk and the Canada Southern. By breaking through this cordon Gould has aroused the implacable hostility of financial giants. It is a fight in which the West is pitted against the East, or rather against the money magnates of the East, who have set out to control not only the railway business of this Continent but to dominate also the sea traffic of the world. They have killed competition between Chicago and the East, and are now trying to throttle all attempts to re-establish it.

A SILLY PRETENSE.

There is nothing like looking on the bright side of things. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat says the Republican split in Vermont can do no harm because the Republican party there is so strong it can divide and still whip the Democrats. Then it consorts itself for the Republican split in Arkansas by saying the party had no chance to win there anyway. It does not seem to have occurred to the Globe-Democrat that no party is ever strengthened by splits, bolts and faction fights. It is quite true that the split in Vermont was largely the consequence of overgrown strength while that in Arkansas was the result of hopeless weakness, yet the party in neither State is stronger by the internal warfare. Neither is the party in the Nation strengthened. In Arkansas the factions are fighting to control the Federal patronage, neither side having any hope of electing anybody on the State ticket. In Vermont the Republicans are so strong and the Democrats so weak, that rival Republican factions deem it safe to fight out their quarrels at the polls taking the chance of the Democrats being able to slip in through the division. It is just as well to view these things philosophically, but the pretense that they do no harm is both foolish and false.

Carl Brown, Coxey's former lieutenant in the "Army of the Unemployed" that marched into Washington only to be evicted by the police, has returned to California and has incorporated a party in San Francisco with several objects, among which are to "accept gifts and divide the same among the members." The principles of the party are, mainly, of a tent and Carl Coxey. Reform will be the motto of the new organization—graft wherever you can, and reform as a pretense to keep the place club in the past profitable.

COMPLICATIONS IN BIG STRIKE.

BRICKLAYERS AND MASONS WOULD NOT WORK WITH NON-UNION MEN.

OMAHA, Neb., July 4.—The first attempt to replace the Omaha shop men with outsiders was made this morning.

There were twenty-seven in the party, but five refused to go to work when they reached the shops.

The strike was headed by an extraneous force of company watchmen and will eat and sleep near the shops.

A feature of their arrival was the strike of the brick layers and hod carriers. The new shops now under construction.

These men shed bricks and stones at the new arrivals as they marched past the shops and then walked out. They said they had not work in the shops in which non-union labor was to be employed. Thus the strike takes on another complication, as the masons and their helpers declare work will be tied up on the new buildings.

The situation is growing new men

These men shied bricks and stones at the new arrivals as they marched past the shops and then walked out and declared they would not work on shops in which non-union labor was to be employed. Thus the strike takes on another complication, as the masons and their helpers declare work will be tied up on the new buildings if the company insists on hiring new men.
